CLIENT CHALLENGE

During its dynamic growth, the Client faced up a new challenge – ability to manage their employees capacity according to the newly introduced concept. Providing worldwide services translated into much more complex needs, and confronted with the new international structures - using offline Excel sheets was no longer sufficient. Looking for an alternative to the increased complexity of their processes, the Client turned to Inwedo. The main challenges were online access to capacity management database, parallel updates, dynamic real-time calculations and providing results instantly, in a user-friendly graphic form.

SOLUTION

To help the Client meet their software needs, Inwedo's team performed thorough analysis of the company's workflow. Having targeted all the most sensitive areas, we designed a dedicated intranet system to process employee data in real time. Each and every user has their own customized rights and limitations of access, depending on their positions and functions. Flexible forms allow easy data input, modified by each user depending of their actual needs. Clear overview of available resources and competencies enables managers to plan work, or take informed decisions as a response to emerging situations, by allocating necessary workforce in seconds.

RESULTS

The implemented system helped to answer the Client's dynamic needs of human resource allocation processes. The application is in constant use today, supporting employees in achieving their optimal performance. Clear work tracking translated into less time spent planning and reporting. Timesheets and summaries can be generated automatically, ready to present to the head-office representatives all over the world. Our solution saved on average 1 hour daily of each employee's work day, and made reporting process 28 days shorter.
